Concept Note

Background & Rationale

EDUCATION as an academic subject is not confined to a specific discipline. Almost every topic that comes under the purview of EDUCATION can be seen from diverse perspectives. Thus "EDUCATION from Multiple Perspectives" is a unique way to explore the different issues of this particular academic discipline involving different disciplines like Philosophy, Psychology, Sociology, Technology and many others. This method of integration is the key to understand EDUCATION in this changing world. This is the holistic approach that helps to bring forth a comprehensive worldview.

Multiple approach to education aims to develop adaptable and well-rounded individuals who are well-equipped with twenty first century skills and capacities in diverse fields such as the arts, humanities, languages, sciences, social sciences, technical & vocational fields and to foster an ethic of social engagement as well as fundamental soft skills such as communication skills, work and life skills, quantitative aptitude (numerical literacy), language, and IT proficiencies. This approach will guide the students through a lifelong ongoing process of self-awareness, self-actualization, and constant self-discovery.

Academicians need to work together to develop integrated, collaborative way to address research problems and jointly develop holistic solutions to those problems in order to simultaneously address multiple dimensions of the problems facing humankind, solve them, and make this world a better place to live. This requires academicians to rise above their subject-specific domains and discipline-specific empires.

Main Focus

The central focus of the seminar is to develop a conceptual idea on diverse perspectives of education that can help to solve many of the social, cultural, economic, demographic, ecological, environmental, and geographic issues facing the world today. The discussions of the seminar will expand the horizon of EDUCATION with the aim to promote holistic education with a wider aim to foster unity and integrity of knowledge in addition to properly recognizing, identifying, and nurturing the unique capabilities of every student. This is done in order to eliminate pointless hierarchies among disciplines and break down the watertight divisions between various areas of learning.
