Dr. K. R. Adhikary College of Optometry & Paramedical Technology, established in 2003 and affiliated with the University of Kalyani, is a premier institution in West Bengal offering diploma and certificate programs in Optometry, Medical Laboratory Technology, Physiotherapy, and more. The Department of Physiology, University of Kalyani, established in 2005, is a center of excellence in postgraduate and doctoral education. With advanced laboratories and a strong focus on interdisciplinary research, it fosters innovation and academic rigor in physiological sciences. MEDICON is a multidisciplinary academic conference that brings together professionals, scholars, and students from the fields of physiological, medical, paramedical, and nutrition sciences to foster dialogue, share research, and explore collaborative solutions to contemporary healthcare challenges. The summit will feature keynote lectures by leading experts, student oral presentations, workshops, interactive scientific panels, and networking opportunities, making it a comprehensive platform for academic exchange and interdisciplinary growth.
